MY SEARCH FOR THE FAMILIES OF WILLIAM GRIEB (1838 - 1901) AND HIS WIFE SALOME MAMMEL (1848 - 1932), WASHTENAW COUNTY, MICHIGAN

Research by Marti Hause, Vista, California. Edited by Julius Cohen

I have learned the value of having a name listed in the GSWC Family History Capers. While looking for my ancestors, I got two responses from the listing I had in the Capers. One gave me the Griebs line back to those born before 1786. The second contact promised to contact me again a little later to exchange the information that each of us has collected. This article reflecting my efforts to date may help others who might be researching any of the family lines mentioned and, possibly, bring me into contact with others who could help me with my efforts.

To start with my father's line, William and Salome Mammel Grieb are my father's grandparents. My father, Erwin Wenk (1910 – 1982) told me his grandmother said "she played with the Indians in the thumb area of Michigan when she was a child." Grandpa William Grieb died in 1901 so my father did not have any memory of him. Grandmother Salome Grieb died in 1932 so my father clearly remembered her.

Salome, a Lutheran, was the first leader of the Church Women's organization in Zion Lutheran at Rogers Corners, Chelsea, Michigan, and also the first woman to be buried with her husband in the church cemetery that adjoins the old brick church at Rogers Corners. While growing up I often drove by her old house on the corner of Scio Church and Fletcher Rd. I started trying to find out about the Grieb family but persons living at the time knew nothing but her name, Salome Mammel. During one of my trips from California, my mother Dorothy Pritchard Wenk, my husband Carl Hause and I went to the Manchester Library. It contained the History of Washtenaw County (1881) and, included therein, was a bio of William Grieb.

> William Grieb, farmer, Lima Township, was born in Wurtemburg, Germany Jan 5, 1838. He was the son of Michael and Elizabeth Grieb. He came to America with his father and brother in 1855, and settled in Ann Arbor, where his brother John Michael, had worked for about six years. About this time his mother came to this country and bought a farm in Freedom Township. On March 14, 1873, William married Salome Mammel, born in Freedom Township in 1848.

According to the History of Washtenaw County, her parents came to Scio Township when she was four years old, and remained until she was 17, when they removed to Freedom Township. They had 4 children - Catherine, Charles, Frank and an infant. William Grieb was a member of the Lutheran Church, and a successful farmer. His parents also were members of the same church. His father died in 1861 and his mother on February 6, 1880.

Where did the part of "growing up with the Indians" fit? I seemed to have more questions than answers. I did not know Salome's parent's names and a search of the indexes for Washtenaw County did not show the Mammel name. I found a Fred Mammel living in Chelsea. We met and exchanged information but, unfortunately, his did not show the name of Salome. His ancestor was P. Jakob Mammel. Another brick wall? He reported that his family was from the Sebewaing area. Later, when I talked with my father's brothers, they said there was a Sebewaing family connection as they remembered driving to Sebewaing with the Cannehls (who are they?) once. Maybe a link?

I returned to California and searched the Wuerttemberg Emigration Index. There, listed in Volume Three, P 129 was: Mammel, Gotlieb Fredrich and F; Birth place Kuppingen District; Herrenberg, Application Date: February 1847; Destination: North America Number 834626. I looked at the papers Fred Mammel had given me. There was P. Jakob and Phillip Jakob with the same birth date. Wow! A connection.

The Federal Census index had nothing for 1850, but Mammel's were listed in the 1860 census in Sebewaing, Line 508 Dwelling 499 Huron County, Sebewaing Township. Here, at last was a probable Indian connection. Shown was Gotllieb Mammel, 55 Farmer Germany; Barbara Mammel 42; Soloman (Salome) Mammel 12; Catherine Mammel 4.

As an example of the transcription errors that we often stumble on, I finally found the family indexed as Gottless Nannel (check this spelling) in 1850 in Freedom Township, line 14 Washtenaw County, Freedom Township 1850 census: Godlep Manell (check this spelling) age 47; Margaret age 39; Caroline 19; Jacob 18; John 12; Margaret 4; Salma 2. Margaret is not found again in a census.

Caroline is also listed in the Lodi Township, Washtenaw County census as a servant on the Booth Farm with Norman Burgess, Line 31 (they later married). Catherine Mammel is listed on the 1870 census with them in Putnam Township, Livingston County, Line 31: Virgil Booth 47; Rhoda 44; Mary 19; Phobe Jane16; Nathaniel 14; Lewis 11; Rachel 6; Rhoda 4; Norman Burgess 21; Jacob Huber 26; Caroline Mamell 19.

In the 1874 Stollsteimer's Washtenaw County Relatives, in Scio Township I found Mammel (no initial) in Section 29 with 40 acres. I then conducted a line- by-line search of the 1870 census Washtenaw County, Scio Township listings. I found on Line 418 Dwelling 426 Page 360 - July 29, 1870:

Gottlieb Mammel		72	M	W	Farmer 2300	1000 Wuerttemberg	1	1
Barbara	"	52	F	W	Keeping House	" "	1	1
Sally	"	21	F	W	At home	Michigan	1	1
Kate	"	15	F	W	At home	Michigan	1	1
Frederick	"	9	M	W	attending school	Michigan	1	1

I found in the 1870 Putnam Township, Livingston County, Michigan, line 102: Norman Burgess, 61; Caroline, 58; Martha E., 11; Frederick, 8; Nelson, 6; and Catherine Mammel, 15 (youngest sister of Caroline counted in census twice).

There was another son by this time. At the Genealogy Society library on the campus of Michigan in Ann Arbor my mother found an old cemetery index that listed Gott Mammel with birth and death dates who was buried in Manchester. I contacted the Manchester cemetery and they had no record of the burial. Where did the dates in the index come from? They coincided exactly with both census records and Wuerttemberg records.

I checked the Manchester census line by line and in the 1880 Federal Census for Manchester Township, Washtenaw County, Anna Mammel, 60, was on line 105 and on line 107 was Frederick, 20, her son and a farm laborer. The Emanuel Church in Manchester had funeral records for Gott in 1877. That was the source for the index record. They also said that Bethel Church in Freedom Township had membership records for Gottlieb in the 1850s, but we have not been able to find where Gottlieb is buried. We do not know what happened to Anna Barbara and Frederick after 1880.

A John Mammel was in 12 Michigan Infantry Company D and Company 70, second battalion Veteran Reserve Corps 12 Michigan Infantry during our Civil War. In 1880, John lived Gypsum Creek, McPherson, Kansas, according to NA film numberT9 0387 Page no. 444A. I applied for his civil war papers. His wife was Frances French who appears in the census with her mother, stepfather and siblings. Francis later became a physician in Kansas and she applied for a Widow's Pension from there.

In Salome's obituary in 1932 she lists a sister, Catherine, as a survivor living in St. Catherines ,Ontario. I found a Joseph Koch, his wife Catherine and son in a St. Catherines census, but cannot be sure it is the right Catherine. So close, but… I do not know what happened to the Burgess family after 1870. Maria, a sister in that line has disappeared from my search efforts after the1850 census.

Using search engines on the Internet to look for Mammel, I uncovered a book, The Mammel Family in a Kansas library. I E-mailed the library and they gave me an E-mail address in Canada. That way, I was able to connect with Mammel records back to 1470. In October 2003, during a Rhine Cruise, I was able to meet distant Mammel relatives. What a thrill. I also have talked with a descendant of Johannes Mammel, a physician living in Denver, who graduated from the University of Michigan without knowing anything about his Michigan connections! What's more, we visited with Phillip Jakob's descendants who still live in the Sebewaing area!

As for the William Grieb family, I have not been able to find much, just birth and death dates and a family picture taken shortly before his death in 1901. Included in the family picture is their first grandchild Wilbur Grieb aged about 1 year. A query to the Genealogical Society of Washtenaw County hit the jack pot! Family members gave me the Wagner connection. Wilhelm's mother was Elizabeth Wagner. After her husband died in Germany, she came to America with two sons Karl (Charles), and Jakob. Her brothers had migrated by the 1850s and were working in Ann Arbor and Manchester as tailors and farmers. Elizabeth Charl, a widow with two sons, is listed in Wuerttemberg Index Vol. 8, - Carl Friedrich, Jacob, Application date March 1861 Number 849614.

Wilhelm's father was Johann Michael Grieb, a citizen and bricklayer born October 22, 1806 in Moehringen and died Jan 23, 1860 also in Moehringen. Johann's parents were Michael Grieb, a coachbuilder and Barbara Merz. Johann was married September 8, 1833 in Moehringen to Elisabetha Charlotta Wagner who was born on October 29, 1809 in Moehringen. Her parents were Caspar Wagner and Elisabetha Wolf. Elisabetha Grieb came to America with her sons Jakob and Carl Friedrich in 1861.

I have passed this information on to a Grieb relative who lives in Brussels, Belgium to gain whatever help I can get with my exploration into this family. Jakob died and is buried in St. Thomas Lutheran Cemetery, on Ellsworth Road, Freedom Township, shortly after arriving in America. In this country, Carl was known as Charles. He was in the Civil War and later married Clara Bolles in Chelsea. They lived in Manchester and later moved to Webberville in Ingham County. Johann Michael was born on July 14, 1835. Other than that date, so far he has been impossible to track. We found a John Michael Grieb in Indiana and, although both were born in 1835, we cannot absolutely connect him to our John Michael ancestor. Such is the challenge, fun and frustration of genealogical research.

STRAYS

Ann Arbor Courier, 14 Mar. 1894 [Wed.].

Congressman James Gorman of Washington, D.C. and Chelsea, Mich., was in the city yesterday. Although the editor of the Courier has given Jimmie more notices than probably any other person in the congressional district, the gentleman failed to call while in town. He was busy, though, and is of course excusable.

PAULINE SMITH FAMILY BIBLE RECORD

This Bible record was donated by Mr. John E. Proctor of Stilwell, Kansas. The Bible was brought to Ann Arbor by his great great-grandmother Pauline Smith in the 1850s. The Smith family settled in Ann Arbor Township north of the Huron River on Stein Road. The first pages of the Bible are missing, thus we are showing the New Testament title page information.

See the Ellen Latson Bible for another side of this family.

ZACHARIAH SOTHORON FAMILY BIBLE RECORD

This Bible was found at the Harlan Hatcher Library, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. It is located in the Special Collections area BS 185 1792 .N5. The library has graciously agreed to share the family record with us for our Registry.

Holy Bible, printed and sold by Hugh Gaine, New York, Hanover Square. 1792.

There is an old piece of paper inserted in the Genesis book of the bible with the following handwritten on it:

Zachariah Sothoron was married to his wife Susanna (Sothoron crossed out) Morton the 20th day of October in the year of our Lord one (thousand crossed out) seven hundred and ninety nine.
